Postmodernist Fiction By Brian Mchale

This is based on Chapter 1, entitled, "From Modernist to Postmodernist Fiction: Change of Dominant" of the book: McHale, Brian. Postmodernist Fiction. London: Routledge, 2001. McHale begins by giving us the opinions of a few other authors on how they feel towards postmodernism. He quotes John Barth, a familiar face, as saying of postmodernism that...

Brian McHale- Postmodernist Fiction | Postmodernism!

McHale presents a curiously confusingly postmodern take on postmodernist fiction, jam-packed with conceptual loops and twists and experimental visual displays of language. His main focus is on distinguishing the primarily epistemological concerns of modernist fiction from the primarily ontological concerns of postmodernist fiction.

Like it or not, the term `postmodernism' seems to have lodged itself in our critical and theoretical discourses. We have a postmodern architecture, a postmodern dance, perhaps even a postmodern philosophy and a postmodern condition. But do we have a postmodernist fiction? In this trenchant and lively study Brian McHale undertakes to construct a version of postmodernist fiction which ...

Brian McHale's work on postmodernist fiction has sometimes been described as difficult to work through, but I'd say this is one of the clearest works on postmodernist literature. I find his explanations quite easy to follow, even in a field as scattered, controversial and unclear as postmodernism sometimes can be.

The Cambridge Introduction to Postmodernism by Brian McHale

McHale offers an outlook of what is to come next: an attempt "to describe the repertoire of strategies upon which postmodernist fiction draws in order to foreground the ontological structure of text and world" for which he uses "Hrushovski's three dimension", i.e. the reconstructed world, the text continuum, and - instead of the modernist dimension of speakers, voices, and positions - the ...
